ETHNOLOGY AND CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY STUDENTS' CLUB

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences
call for papers for an international and multidisciplinary conference

01Culture: Digital Age

The conference will be held from 18 to 20 May 2022 at the Faculty of Humanity and Social Sciences Philosophy in Zagreb. "01Culture: Digital Age" is an international and multidisciplinary student conference that will bring together professors, students and young academics, as well as representatives of associations and civil initiatives that address the problems of digital and culutre realtions through various approaches.

Modern society is facing rapid and abrupt technological changes daily because they affect all spheres of our lives. Encouraged by the social changes caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, which has contributed to the transition of almost all aspects of our daily lives to digital space, we strive in the field of anthropology and other related studies to observe and analyze socio-cultural phenomena occurring in any interactive space. Digital technology has enabled the establishment of new forms of social practices, norms and traditions, which has opened a new space for research into society and culture.

This conference will seek to establish a dialogue and raise awareness of the importance of cooperation between academia and civil society to access the complex digital problems. By reflecting on and discussing various aspects of digital life, current and future experts will be able to expand the context of their own research, and all those interested will be able to gain insight into the issues of their own digital space.

Therefore, we extend this invitation not only to students of anthropology, ethnology and cultural anthropology, but also to students, scientists and experts in other fields.

We would suggest to interested authors to look at the mentioned issues of accelerated development and change in all spheres that digitalization affects, as well as the possibilities that this type of research presents in today's current context. For this purpose, we remind you that we invite not only students of anthropology, but also other social sciences, humanities, natural sciences, but also computer science.

Recommended topics:

- the role of humanists in digital technology
- the role of digital technology during the pandemic
- impact on everyday life
- digital communities and their representation
- virtual space experiences
- social networks and media
- Internet
- transition to the digital economy
- art in the digital space
- methodological and theoretical reflections

The suggested topics are just some of the possible ones and serve as guidelines, but they do not need to be adhered to.

We wholeheartedly encourage the creation and shaping of our own topics and interests.

You can apply your studies by sending an application form to e-mail: 01culture.zagreb@gmail.com, until the April 10, 2022